

Privacy Policy

Justice For Sport has updated its privacy policy to provide clear and direct language surrounding the information we collect, what we use it for, and the few situations in which we share it with others.

We intend that you use Justice For Sport in the knowledge that we take your privacy seriously and that we've implemented fair and ethical practices.

By using our services, you are accepting the practices described in the below privacy policy, including our use of cookies and similar online tools. If you do not agree to the terms of this privacy policy, please do not use our services.

COLLECTION OF INFORMATION

Personal Information

When you submit information or use any information on our website, you know you are voluntarily supplying personally identifiable information about yourself.

The personal information that we collect and store may include, but is not limited to, the following types of information about you:

Contact information, including first and last name, email address, and phone number.

Occupation information, including company name, company type, your title, and any other information you directly provide to us via email or online submission.

Unless explicitly stated at the time of collection, personal information is not shared directly with Justice For Sport affiliates.

Non-Personal Information

When you use our Justice For Sport websites, newsletters, or other digital services, we collect additional non-personally identifiable information.

This includes, but is not limited to, data about your device, browser, operating system, your IP address, general location information, page information, and the date and time of each request you make to Justice For Sport.

This non-personal information may be collected through various technologies, including but not limited to server logs, cookies, and web beacons.

We may use information gathered across our network of websites, mobile apps, newsletters, and other services to create a single user record. Additionally, we may use or combine information that we collect or receive from outside third-party sources to enhance, expand, and check the accuracy of our records.

USE OF INFORMATION

We use your data for the following purposes:

1. Provide you with access to the content and services we produce
2. Analyze demographic or behavioural data to improve or personalize the services we offer to you
3. Provide you with more relevant advertising content

4. Post your user generated content and comments to the sites as you request
5. To respond to any emails or requests you directly make to us
6. For our own marketing and retargeting purposes
7. For our statistical, research, record keeping, and reporting purposes
8. To monitor our services for compliance with our Terms of Service and to protect the security of our network
9. To comply with the law
10. For any other purpose identified at the time of collection
11. Reporting to relevant authorities and Maritime linked associations and agencies.

We will not use the information provided to us in ways unrelated to the ones described above.

SHARING INFORMATION

We may share information collected about you under the following conditions:

1. With your consent, after letting you know what information will be shared, and with whom.
  - This includes cases where we share your personal data when reporting to relevant authorities and Maritime linked associations and agencies. In these instances, we will make it clear that the data you are sharing will be transferred to the third party. You will always have the option to not have your data shared.
  - To third party service providers helping us provide, improve, and market Justice For Sport services. Examples include but are not limited to:
    - Our email service provider which we use sends our newsletter
    - Our webinar provider which collects registration information and hosts online presentations

4. To investigate, respond to or resolve problems or inquiries (including law enforcement or legal requests) or protect, enforce, or defend our rights, assets and/or interests
5. To prevent or respond to a violation of any law, regulation, or our Terms of Service, or as necessary to protect and defend our network security

COOKIES

Like many websites, we use cookies, web beacons and similar technologies to record your preferences, track the use of our services and your exposure to our online advertisements. We may also use these technologies to monitor traffic, improve the services and make it easier and/or relevant for your use. For example, we may recommend articles similar to the ones you're reading or display advertisements that you haven't already seen.

Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but, if you prefer, you can usually modify your browser setting to disable or reject cookies. If you delete your cookies or if you set your web browser to decline cookies, some features may not work or may not work as designed. Some browsers make it possible for you to signal that you don't want your Internet browsing activity to be tracked. Since the Internet community hasn't reached a consensus on how to honor these signals, we don't take action to Do-Not-Track requests at this time.

ONLINE ADVERTISING PARTNERS

We allow third-party advertisers to display advertisements on our sites and in our services. These third-party advertisers and related ad-serving companies may use cookies alone or in conjunction with tracking technologies such as web beacons to collect information about you when you use Justice For Sport services.

We will not provide these online advertisers with access to any personally identifiable information you may have provided to us without your consent. Advertisers may, however, use persistent identifiers to track your internet usage across other websites in their networks beyond our websites. While we will not provide these advertisers with personally identifiable information, they may already possess personally identifiable information about you, obtained from other sources, and may be able to combine that information with information behavioural data collected when you use Justice For Sport services. For example, whether you engaged with their advertisement when it was displayed.

We do not control these third parties' tracking technologies, how they may be used, or the information they may collect and we are not responsible for the privacy policies or the content of those third parties.

DATA RETENTION

We will retain your Personal Data for as long as you maintain an account or as otherwise necessary to provide you the Services. We will also retain your Personal Data in a secure backup system for a reasonable period of time in order to assure reliable service and as necessary to comply with our legal obligations, resolve disputes, protect our network security, and enforce our agreements.

Where we no longer need to process your Personal Data for the purposes set out in this Privacy Policy, we will delete your Personal Data from our systems.

Where permissible, we will also delete your Personal Data upon your request.

THIRD PARTY WEBSITES

Our Properties may contain links to third-party websites or mobile applications. Please be aware that we do not control these linked websites and that this Privacy Policy does not apply to those websites.

CHILDREN

Our Properties are not intended for children under the age of 18, and we do not knowingly collect personal information from children under the age of 18.

CHANGES TO OUR PRIVACY POLICY

We may change this privacy policy from time to time. We will post changes in this policy, and suggest that you periodically revisit this policy to stay informed of any changes.

SECURITY

We take reasonable measures to help protect data we collect from unauthorised access and use. We cannot, however, fully eliminate security risks associated with the storage and transmission of Personal Data.
